TAX23

IN-PERSON AND
VIRTUAL INSTITUTE
MONDAY – WEDNESDAY
JANUARY 23 – 25, 2023

For 75 years, the USC Gould School of Law Tax Institute has been the essential three-day event for tax professionals, providing an in-depth examination of the hottest tax law issues and the latest business perspectives. Join more than 60 experienced speakers from across the nation and internationally for the Institute's conference, which will be hybrid this year (in-person audience and speakers with a virtual broadcast).

Monday – Corporate Tax Planning

The Institute will once again begin with a review of recent developments in corporate tax planning followed by afternoon tracks for corporations and closely-held businesses. The day ends with a variety of evening workshops which include an Entertainment Industry Tax Update, Stock Buyback Excise Tax session, a Compensation Tax Issues in M&A, Curing S Corp Tax Gaffes, and Protecting the Privilege in Tax Matters.

Tuesday – Partnerships, Real Estate, Enforcement & Individual

The second day will feature three concurrent tracks of programming focusing on partnerships and real estate, individual tax planning, and ethics, compliance and tax enforcement issues. The day ends with a selection of evening workshops with topics on Partnership and Real Estate Hot Topics, Making Sure an S Corp.'s Losses are Deductible, Income Tax Issues for Multistate Businesses, and more.

Wednesday – Estate Planning

The final day will focus on recent developments, Grantor Trust issues, QSBS, applying the Corporate Transparency Act for trusts, and Life Insurance. The Institute ends with evening workshops featuring our expert speakers on Hot Topics in Estate and Gift Tax Planning, Private Letter Rulings, and more.

Everything You Wanted to Know (and More)
About the 1% Stock Buyback Excise Tax

The Inflation Reduction Act of 2022 added new Internal Revenue Code Section 4501 which imposes a 1% excise tax on the fair market value of “repurchases of corporate stock” by certain publicly traded corporations after December 31, 2022. This session will review the mechanics of the new excise tax, its expected impact and its seemingly broad application to corporate redemptions (including redemptions by U.S. SPACs in connection with de-SPAC transactions). Further, we will discuss the potential application of the excise tax in connection with liquidations, certain tax-free reorganizations and other M&A transactions.

Partnership Compensation

The use of partnership "equity" to compensate service providers is common and, with the use of profits interests, can offer key employees, including investment managers, the opportunity to participate in the capital gains generated by the businesses as to which their services are provided. This session reviews the framework of rules applicable to profits interests, including so-called "carried interests", and explores the effect of Section 1061 on their tax treatment. We consider how the application of these rules can vary in different scenarios and can influence the optimal structure for exit.

How to Be a Loser – Part I: Making Sure a Partnership's Losses Are Deductible by Its Partners

Due to deductions for interest, regular and bonus depreciation, and business expenses, it is common for a partnership or limited liability company to have a net loss for one or more taxable years. In order to claim their distributive shares of such losses, under Section 704(d)(1) of the Code, the partners or members need to have sufficient basis in their partnership interests and, under Section 465(a)(1) of the Code, they may also need to have a sufficient amount at risk, to deduct such losses. If not, such losses will either be reallocated to other partners or members, or be suspended at the entity level. Part I will discuss planning to make sure the partners or members have sufficient basis in their partnership interests and a sufficient amount at risk to claim their distributive shares of such losses. Part I will also discuss whether such losses at the partner or member level are passive or active for purposes of Section 469 of the Code.

This panel provides an introduction to the U.S. tax treatment and reporting of cross-border pensions and retirement plans under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 as amended and U.S. Model Tax Treaties (Articles 18 & 19). It will also provide an overview of pension and retirement plans in OECD countries with privatized social security regimes, how such plans are addressed (or not) in U.S. totalization agreements and the U.S. tax treatment and reporting of such plans. Recognizing that this area of tax law is constantly evolving, this panel will focus on the statutory framework for tax classification of cross-border pension and retirement plans, and the U.S. tax reporting position and compliance associated with the same. We will provide you with some hypotheticals and practical tips to help you navigate this exciting yet complex area of law.

QSBS Planning: A Cocktail Party Idea, with a Small Chance of Qualifying

How many trusts can I put my qualified small business stock (“QSBS”) into? Can both my spouse and I take advantage of the opportunity? None of my friends pay tax when they sell QSBS stock. - There is generally a large gap between what can be done with QSBS and what advisors and google think is possible.

The leverage that can be applied to the right circumstances can be enormous. Here we will sort out truth from fiction. We will discuss the challenges to a lot of the proposed planning options. Whether it is the variety of trusts under Code §663(c), debunking statutory interpretation games practitioners play, inclusion under Code §2036(b) and the trade-offs for the various structures, we will educate and entertain as we navigate the narrow channel for qualification. The tools provided for new transactions and adjustments to current plans, with potential tax legislation will be discussed.
